[3] Reimbursements are made only after the Office of Management and Budget is consulted, the Secretary of State concurs and the 15 day notification to the appropriate congressional committees has taken place.

[6] Defense guidance defines incremental costs as those costs that are above and beyond the partner country's normal operating costs.

[7] This example is based on our analysis of Pakistani army claims and does not include the other service's claims. However, we found generally that the navy claims' documentation was similar to the army's and the other services' claims had less documentation.

[8] The Comptroller took the position that Pakistan likely incurred some increased costs by using the radars to police the airspace over the Northwest Frontier Province and provide air traffic control for U.S. military support flights into Afghanistan. The Comptroller nonetheless agreed that the claims lacked sufficient detail to determine whether these charges were definitively incremental.

[11] See, for example, Pub. L. 107-206; Pub. L. 108-11, sec 1310; Pub. L. 110-161. Beginning in 2003, with the passage of the Emergency Wartime Supplemental Appropriations Act, 2003 (Pub. L. 108-11), Congress required that CSF payments be made with concurrence of the Secretary of State and in consultation with the Director of OMB. The Secretary of Defense's determination with respect to the documentation supporting payments is final and conclusive.

[12] The goal of this operation was to combat al Qaeda, Taliban, and other militants attempting to escape the U.S. invasion of Afghanistan by fleeing into Pakistan. According to Defense, Pakistan has deployed about 120,000 army and paramilitary troops in support of this operation, incurred more than 1,400 casualties, and killed hundreds of al Qaeda, Taliban, and other terrorists.

[13] This reimbursement claim received by Defense in December 2001 covered activity from October through December 2001.

[14] Pub. L. 110-181, sec 1232(b).

[15] Because a previous Defense Inspector General report led to new CSF oversight guidance in December 2003, our assessment focused on reimbursement claims submitted by Pakistan between January 2004 and June 2007.

[16] This example is based on our analysis of Pakistani army claims and does not include the other service's claims. However, we found generally that the navy claims' documentation was similar to the army's, and the other services' claims had less documentation. Payments made to the Pakistani army constituted over 85 percent of total payments made to Pakistan from January 2004 through June 2007.

[17] Army road construction costs were included as a specific line item beginning in September 2004. These costs were claimed and paid each month from September 2004 through February 2007.

[18] Army bunker construction costs were included as a specific line item beginning in July 2006. These costs were claimed and paid each month from July 2006 through February 2007.

[19] Average vehicle damage cost paid was calculated using claims in which vehicle damage was listed as a specific category (September 2004 through June 2007).

[20] These figures include the $5,700 average navy cost per vehicle per month for "vehicle damages" discussed previously. In addition, these figures do not include claims prior to September 2004, as these claims did not contain specific categories.

[21] This cost category was the largest for April 2006 based on the percentage of total dollars claimed that was included in each category. This cost category accounted for 28 percent of the entire claim for April 2006.

[22] GAO used the IMF market rate, period average, by month, in our analysis because this rate takes into account economic variables such as gross domestic product (GDP), revenue, and wages.

[23] These claimed amounts did not fluctuate over the 12-month period and were presented in U.S. dollars.

[24] See GAO, Standards for Internal Control in the Federal Government, GAO/AIMD-00-21.3.1 (Washington, D.C.: November 1999).

[25] Defense reimbursed Pakistan approximately $55 million for maintenance of the Pakistan army's MI-17 and AH-1 Cobra helicopter wings in the border area from July 2006 through February 2007.

[26] See GAO/AIMD-00-21.3.1.
