in the ardent hope of merging myself in him, and thereby feeling free. But fate had willed it otherwise.