time and entreated them to do justice to the labourers. ‘We have our pledge too,’ they used to say. ‘Our relations with the labourers are those of parents and children … How can we brook the interference of a third party? Where is the room for arbitration?’