

The Hustler: I was supposed to be a fast bowler but turned out to be a chucker. My spin bowling – more torque and muscle, less movement and flight – would develop as a default option because in my early years I would hurt a player in the nets with my faulty but lethal pace and be instructed by my coach to switch and take up spin. Still, over the years, my bowling speed and follow-through would be nothing short of a fast bowler's.
