IX: SOUTH AFRICAN COMPETITION COMMISSION REPORT (EXTRACTS)

The Competition Commission is a statutory body in South Africa whose responsibility is to promote and regulate fair competition in the South African economy. This extract is part of a 590-page report by the Competition Commission into competition in the South African banking industry. When originally released by the Commission, crucial portions of the report were removed at the request of the banks concerned. WikiLeaks published the full, unredacted version.