            $table->timestamps();

        });

This above script sets up a “comments” table with a primary key, a foreign key linking to a post, author information, content, and timestamps.

Executing Migrations

Once you’ve customized your migration file, it’s time to apply the changes to your database as shown below:

php artisan migrate
```

This command executes all outstanding migrations, creating the tables and fields as defined. If you need to check the current
