In that case, I said, perhaps a wreath could be laid somewhere in the Commonwealth, anywhere at all, on my behalf?

Request denied.

Nowhere in the world would any proxy be permitted to lay any sort of wreath at any military grave on behalf of Prince Harry, I was told.

I pleaded that this would be the first time I'd let a Remembrance Day pass without paying tribute to the fallen, some of whom had been dear friends.

Request denied.

In the end I rang one of my old instructors at Sandhurst and asked him to lay my wreath for me. He suggested the Iraq and Afghanistan Memorial, in London, which had just been unveiled a few years earlier.

By Granny.

Yes. That's perfect. Thank you.

He said it would be his honor.

Then added: And by the by, Captain Wales. Fuck this. It's proper wrong.

85.

I WASN'T SURE WHAT TO call her, or what exactly she did. All I knew was that she claimed to have "powers."

I recognized the high-percentage chance of humbuggery. But the woman came with strong recommendations from trusted friends, so I asked myself: What's the harm?

Then, the minute we sat down together, I felt an energy around her.

Oh, I thought. Wow. There's something here.

She felt an energy around me too, she said. Your mother is with you.

I know. I've felt that of late.

She said: No. She's with you. Right now.

I felt my neck grow warm. My eyes watered.

Your mother knows you're looking for clarity. Your mother feels your confusion. She knows that you have so many questions.

I do.
