we confer the title of “Flying Sikh” on him.’ It was General Ayub Khan who coined the title ‘Flying Sikh’, when he had congratulated me, saying, ‘Tum daude nahi, udhey ho —you do not run, but fly!’ As I passed in front of the women’s section, the ladies lifted their burqas from their faces so that they could have a closer look at me—an incident that was widely reported in the Pakistani press.

And so, with this victory, I became the Flying Sikh, a title that soon became synonymous with my name all over the world.
