created such a harmony in SLV affairs that the fine threads of individual efforts were woven into a mighty fabric of great strength.

In 1976, my father passed away. He had been in poor health for quite some time due to his advanced age. The death of Jal aluddin had also taken a tol on his health and spirit. He had lost his desire to live, as though after seeing Jal aluddin return to his divine source, he too had become eager to return to his.

Whenever I learnt about my father’s indifferent health, I would visit Rameswaram with a good city doctor. Every time I did so, he would chide me for my unnecessary concern and lecture me on the expenses incurred on the doctor. “Your visit is enough for me to get wel , why bring a doctor and spend money on his fees?” he would ask. This time he had gone beyond the capabilities of any doctor, care or money. My father Jainulabdeen, who had lived on Rameswaram island for 102 years, had passed away

leaving

behind

fifteen

grandchildren